

Sustainable & ethical GOCCO printing

All our T-shirts and tote bags are hand-printed at Abbeymount Studios using GOCCO, a Japanese screen-printing method. We use only water-based inks and 100% organic cotton that is free from allergenic, carcinogenic and toxic chemicals.

Our garments are made by workers who are treated well and paid fairly. This is guaranteed by the Fair Wear Foundation, an independent nonprofit working to improve conditions in the garment industry.

What is GOCCO?

GOCCO is a Japanese screen-making machine. Using a PDF of your artwork, it burns holes into a sheet of film to make a stencil. We attach your stencil to a metal frame to make a screen, which we use to hand-print on fabric. The environmental benefits of GOCCO are:

- significantly reduced energy use,
 - significantly less water consumption
 - no harmful chemicals

Things you should know

Minimum order: 25 of the same item (ie. not 10 T-shirts + 15 totes)

Maximum order: 250 (repeat orders welcome!)

Turnaround: approx 2-3 weeks

Screen size: 240 x 310 mm. Your PDF should be this size at 300dpi

Ink colours We mix ink colours by eye, so can't guarantee exact colour matches, but we'll do our best.
